Thank you to you all for coming today, you made it a super event. We were blessed with beautiful weather which I know added to Claro's picnic plan, but it did mean that the park was incredibly busy. There were a few folk interested but most just rubbed along and enjoyed their day, although we did have to ask one family NOT to set up their picnic in the middle of the run in to the finish. We hope you enjoyed yourselves and those who were lucky enough to gain a prize enjoy one of Halifax' finest products.

In case you're wondering, it was me who arranged for all the savage sunshine, and I apologise for making you all suffer in the oppressive warmth. Thanks to you all for turning out and I hope you enjoyed the day. This was the first time I'd organised a double header and it proved to be quite manic. Hopefully, it all looked calm and well managed on the surface but, believe me, it was absolutely crazy below. The start team, led by Ian and Julie, were absolutely incredible, moving from the first start to the second in the 15 minute gap and losing only 5 minutes. They have my eternal respect and gratitude, as do all the helpers who were switched from job to job as needed without any grumble.

There were a couple of hiccups and I apologise to anyone who was affected by these. I hope it didn't spoil your day.
